THE PERILOUS FIGHT: AMERICA'S WORLD WAR II IN COLOR, (DVD -- Video) -- Closed Captioned -- Length: 240 minutes on 1 disc

World War II was the first war to be recorded extensively on color film - mostly by Americans. For years, much of that color footage remained unseen and unknown. THE PERILOUS FIGHT: AMERICA'S WORLD WAR II IN COLOR, narrated by acclaimed actor Martin Sheen, brings America's wartime experience - on the battlefield and at home - vividly and intimately to life by combining original color film footage with compelling passages from diaries and letters written by people who were part of an unforgettable period of history. THE PERILOUS FIGHT features a wealth of rare footage - gathered from sources that include government archives, museums, historical societies, and veterans and their families - that has been digitally restored to its original color. The series, which features no still photographs, black and white film or interviews, is a unique and telling look at how America faced a catastrophic conflict.
